Many dogs behave well around desert tortoises, but biting and chewing are common instincts dogs have that are dangerous to desert tortoises. Dogs must not be left unattended with desert tortoises.

Wooden or chain-link fences should touch the ground to stop a tortoise from digging out. Chain-link fences should have 12 inch high visual barrier secured around the base to prevent a desert tortoise from seeing through and getting caught in the wire.

We recommend there be a permanent barrier across the base of all gate openings. The barrier should be at least 12 inches high so that a desert tortoise cannot see through or climb over. The barrier should remain in place when the gate is open or closed.

Sun, shade, and a safe and dry area for housing and brumation (hibernation) - if applicable, for the desert tortoise must be available throughout the year.

Is water available so that a desert tortoise has easy access in and out to bathe and/or drink? Yes ☐; No ☐
The container should be in shade and level with the ground. Flat rocks, bricks, etc. placed on the ground will help keep mud out of the dish.

You will need to make arrangements for the care of the desert tortoise while you are away for long periods of time. Also, remember desert tortoises may out live you. Therefore, arrangements for their future care should be considered.
